Eurovent Summit gains Pro-Lam as a Silver Sponsor

Brussels, 28 August 2025. Eurovent is pleased to welcome Pro-Lam, one of the leading providers of insulation and sheet solutions for the HVAC industry, as a silver sponsor of the 2025 EUROVENTSUMMIT.

Pro-Lam, established in 1985, specialises in industries that involve extruding aluminium profiles, pressure die-casting lightweight alloys and moulding plastic for a variety of applications on both a national and international level. Join us on 24-26 September in Prague, under the forward-looking theme #ManufacturingForTomorrow and find out more from Pro-Lam during the Summit about their modular systems, industrial designs and a wide range of standard profiles and accessories.

The Pro-Lam Managing Director, Paolo Cavenati stated that: "Throughout these four decades, the company has engineered, designed, and manufactured high-quality components that are exported globally. Pro-Lam's product range includes thermal break aluminium profiles, a variety of structural components and accessories, as well as hinges, handles, locks, dampers, louvers, mist eliminators, and portholes. Several patented solutions are part of this offering, reflecting the company's dedication to technological advancement. Committed to innovation and quality, Pro-Lam continues to serve international markets with reliable and efficient solutions."

This year's EUROVENTSUMMIT will spotlight the industry's journey toward greater sustainability and circularity. A robust seminar programme will explore the latest advancements and strategies being employed to secure a more environmentally responsible future. In addition, the Summit will offer valuable evening networking events, creating opportunities for HVACR professionals and stakeholders to connect and collaborate on trending industry topics.
